THE legacy of Templestowe Park Primary School's class of 2015 will be immortalised in a colourful mural.

Templestowe Park visual arts teacher Nicole Sumner said the school's 73 Grade 6 students had each helped inform the design.

"The students were told that they would be working on a mural and they were told to draw anything that came to mind," she said.

Common themes were grouped and the drawings were combined into the larger design, which features a fantasy underwater land.

It took 11 weeks to complete the mural, which will be left as a legacy.
